

Susan B. Reingold

Sue Reingold assumed the job of Deputy Program Manager in November 2005. Prior to that she was Associate Director of the Office of State and Local Government Coordination, U.S. Department of Homeland Security, where her portfolio included coordination and oversight of Departmental activities that supported state, territorial, local and tribal interests in the areas of intelligence and information sharing and collaboration, infrastructure protection, and science and technology.

Before joining DHS at its inception in January 2003, Ms. Reingold managed State and Local Outreach at the Critical Infrastructure Assurance Office, now a part of the Department of Homeland Security. From 2000-2001 Ms. Reingold was a Visiting National Security Agency (NSA) Fellow at the Center for Strategic and International Studies, where she was the Project Manager for the "Dark Winter" Bioterrorism Exercise and contributed to several projects on terrorism, technology and national security. From 1998-2000, Ms. Reingold was on-loan from NSA to the U.S. European Command in Stuttgart, Germany and at the Pentagon as the Deputy Director of the Defense-wide Information Assurance Program Staff. She also spent a year as a Special Assistant to the Chairman and CEO of Analytic Services, Inc. (ANSER), where she managed the initial development of the company's homeland security business.

Prior to 1998, Ms. Reingold served in a variety of positions across the National Security Agency in the Signals Intelligence, Information Assurance, Support Services, Foreign Relations, IG, and Legislative Affairs organizations. Ms. Reingold received a B.S. in the Russian and Hebrew languages, with a teacher's certification from the University of Wisconsin- Madison; studied for a year at The Hebrew University in Jerusalem, Israel; and holds an M.A. in National Security Studies from Georgetown University.
